

The Lord's Prayer

Robert Stone

(1516 – 1613)

Our Fa - ther which art in heav'n, hal - low-ed by thy name; thy king - dom come;

This system contains the first line of the musical score. It features a treble and bass staff joined by a brace. The key signature has three flats (B-flat, E-flat, A-flat). The melody is written in the treble staff with quarter notes and rests. The lyrics are printed below the treble staff, aligned with the notes. The bass staff provides a harmonic accompaniment with chords and single notes.

thy will be done in earth as it is in heav'n. Give us this day our dai - ly bread.

This system contains the second line of the musical score. It continues the melody and accompaniment from the first line. The lyrics are printed below the treble staff. The musical notation includes various note values and rests, with the bass staff continuing the harmonic support.

And for-give us our tres - pas-ses, as we for-give them that tres - pass a-against us.

This system contains the third line of the musical score. The melody and accompaniment continue. The lyrics are printed below the treble staff. The musical notation includes various note values and rests, with the bass staff continuing the harmonic support.

And lead us not in - to temp-ta - ti-on; but de - liv - er us from ev - il. A - men.

This system contains the fourth and final line of the musical score. It concludes the piece with a final cadence. The lyrics are printed below the treble staff. The musical notation includes various note values and rests, with the bass staff continuing the harmonic support.

The Wenley Partbooks of 1549-52 contains this work. The date of the Wanley books makes Stone's setting one of the earliest in the Tudor period. The music is presented up a minor third, with quartered note values.
